AW, being the rule of action prescribed by the supreme power of the State, commanding what is right, and prohibiting what is wrong, an acquaintance with its provisions is desirable to the scholar, the legislator, the planter and mechanic, as well as the lawyer by profession. All classes of society, in a republican government, like our own, dependent, for the perpetuity of its institutions, alone on an enlightened public sentiment, require some which their lives, liberties, and their fortunes depend. The Laws of Mississippi, of a general nature as enacted by her successive legisatures, lie scattered in numerous volumes, buried under a mass of private acts, of importance to those alone who are directly nterested in their provisions, and offering by their bulk, and want of arrangement an almost insuperable barrier to that general dissemination of their contents, amongst the great mass of the people, which their mportance would seem to require. To collect and arrange all the laws of a general nature now in force, in this state, under their appropriate titles, together with a suitable digested index, and superintending in person the completion of the work, until ready for delivery, will be a labor of no small magnitude.
